

Health Centers: A Guide for Patients

What Are Health Centers?

- Health centers are local clinics that can treat your medical, dental, and other health care needs. They are community-based and led in part by patients at the health center. Health centers focus on meeting the needs of the people and the areas they serve.
- Health centers have been a key part of the nation's health care system for nearly 60 years. They serve more than 31 million people at more than 15,500 sites across the country. About 90% of their patients have incomes less than 200% of the federal poverty level.
- They are in all U.S. states, territories, and the District of Columbia. You can find them in cities, rural areas, and everywhere in between. Health centers are located where people can access them easily. Some health centers also operate mobile vans to bring care directly to patients.
- They have doctors, dentists, therapists, social workers, eye doctors, OB/GYNs, pediatricians, case managers, and other medical professionals who ensure that patients receive a full range of care.
- Health centers adjust their fees based on income and family size. Even if you don't have insurance or can't afford to pay, you will not be turned away.
- Many health centers offer care in multiple languages, and they provide interpretation and translation services as needed.
- Many health centers help with transportation if you have trouble traveling to a clinic in your area.
- Health centers are partly funded by the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA). HRSA monitors health centers to ensure they meet high standards and help their patients achieve better health.
- Health centers provide high-quality care. According to a recent survey, 97% of patients would recommend their health center to family or friends.

What Health Centers Do

Health Centers with Behavioral Health Services

*The following is a directory of specific health centers with direct-care behavioral health services within the North Carolina counties impacted by Helene. This is NOT an all-inclusive list of centers. To find a clinic near you, go to <https://findahealthcenter.hrsa.gov> and enter your specific address in the search bar.

*Most counties also have school-based health centers that offer behavioral health services. These clinics are generally available to students attending the specific school and their immediate family members. Navigate to <https://findahealthcenter.hrsa.gov> and enter your specific location in the search bar to find school-based clinics.

*Many of these clinics have on-site and tele-health capabilities. If you are unable to physically visit the center, you can call the center directly to inquire about the availability of tele-health services.
